- 1'< We declare our profound solidarity with, and support for, the millions of people in different parts of the world who, for reasons beyond their control, are forced to uproot themselves and their families from their homes and to seek refuge and safety elsewhere'
- 1'= Refugees and migrants in large movements often face a desperate ordeal and take great risks to reach safety, embarking on perilous journeys > frequent crossings which they may not survive' and face the threat of criminal groups' Even if they reach their destination, they face an uncertain reception and a precarious future'
- 1'9 -the challenge to world leaders is moral and humanitarian' We are determined, first and foremost, to save lives' We will do our utmost with all the means at our disposal to address the abuses and exploitation suffered by countless refugees and migrants in vulnerable situations' We acknowledge a shared global responsibility to manage large movements of refugees and migrants in a humane, sensitive and compassionate manner' It is a particular responsibility and burden on countries of origin or nationality, transit and destination' Cooperation between all such countries has never been more important' Those involved in large movements must have the comprehensive political, practical assistance and legal protection which they need and to which they are entitled under international law' Their human rights and fundamental freedoms must be fully respected and they must be able to live their lives in dignity'

1. Underlining the importance of a comprehensive approach to the issues involved, we will spare no effort to ensure a humane, sensitive and dignified reception for all persons arriving in large movements, whether refugees or migrants'
2. We recognize, and will address, the special needs of people in vulnerable situations who are travelling within large movements of refugees and migrants, including women and children at risk of order persons, persons with disabilities, persons and victims of exploitation and abuse in the context of human trafficking and migrant smuggling'
3. Recognising that States have rights and responsibilities to manage and control their borders, we will implement border management and control procedures, including disembarkation procedures, which are in conformity with international human rights standards and, as appropriate, international refugee law'. We will ensure that police officers and law enforcement officers who work in border areas are trained to behave with respect towards all persons crossing, or seeking to cross, international borders'
4. We will take measures to prevent violations of the human rights of all persons in transit and after arrival. We will ensure that the immediate needs of persons who have been exposed to physical or psychological danger while in transit are addressed on their arrival, without discrimination and without regard to legal status or means of arrival'
6. We are determined to address irregular or unsafe movement, without prejudice to the right to seek asylum, and to combat the exploitation, abuse and discrimination suffered by many refugees and migrants'
7. We express our profound concern at the large number of people who have lost their lives at sea trying to reach safety'. We will intensify international cooperation on the strengthening of search and rescue mechanisms'. We will also work to improve the availability of accurate data on the whereabouts of people and vessels who are stranded at sea'. And we will strengthen support for rescue efforts over land along dangerous or isolated routes'
8. We recognize the particular vulnerabilities of women and children during the journey from country of origin to country of arrival'. This includes their potential exposure to discrimination and sexual and physical abuse, violence and exploitation'
9. We will ensure that our responses to large movements of refugees and migrants promote gender equality and the empowerment of women and girls and fully respect the human rights of women and girls'. We will combat sexual and gender-based violence in every way possible'. We will tackle the multiple and intersecting forms of discrimination to which migrant and refugee women and girls are subjected'. And at the same time, recognizing the significant leadership role being played by women in refugee and migrant communities, we will work to ensure their full and equal participation in the development of local solutions and opportunities'
9. We will protect the human rights of migrant and refugee children, in accordance with the best interest of the child, particularly unaccompanied children and those separated from their families, and we will provide for their health, education, psychosocial development and birth registration'

- '11 We will, with full respect for the rules of international law, vigorously combat human trafficking and migrant smuggling, including through targeted measures to identify victims of trafficking within large movements of refugees and migrants and to provide temporary and longer-term protection to these victims of such crimes' With a view to disrupting the criminal networks involved, we will review our national legislation and criminal justice provisions to ensure conformity with international standards on migrant smuggling, human trafficking, maritime safety and order management' We will establish or upgrade, as appropriate, national and regional anti-human trafficking policies' We note initiatives such as the African Union Horn of Africa Initiative on Human Trafficking and Smuggling of Migrants' Reaffirming the importance of the UN Convention against Transnational Organized Crime and the two relevant Protocols thereto, we encourage ratification of, accession to and implementation of relevant international instruments on preventing and combating trafficking in persons and the smuggling of migrants'
- '12 We will ensure, on the basis of bilateral, regional and international cooperation, that adequate, sustainable and predictable financing is made available to enable countries to respond to the immediate humanitarian and developmental needs of the large numbers of refugees and migrants arriving in their territories'
- '13 We will take steps to combat discrimination in our societies against refugees and migrants and to strengthen their inclusion in all spheres of life' National policies will be developed to this end in conjunction with civil society, the private sector, employers and workers' organizations and other stakeholders' We also note the obligation on refugees and migrants to observe the laws of their host countries'
- '14 We will invest in improved data collection, including sex- and age-disaggregated data as well as information on regular and irregular flows, the economic impacts of migration and refugee movements, and other issues'
- '15 We commit to protecting the safety, dignity, and human rights and fundamental freedoms of all migrants, regardless of status, at all times' We will cooperate closely with each other to facilitate and ensure safe, orderly, regular and responsible migration, including return and readmission'
- '16 We acknowledge our responsibility to protect the interests of, and assist, our migrant communities abroad, including through consular cooperation' We underline the right of migrants to return to their country of citizenship' We reiterate also that States must readmit their returning nationals who have no right to stay in other countries'
