

Women consider water as a high priority and water is a cross-cutting issue for all themes of the CSD. We urge Governments to discuss the water related implications.

Given the themes of the UNCSD, we can discuss a system where the polluter pays and this results in a Trust out of which payments are made for a basic income for all. This would empower women, children, indigenous peoples, and other protagonists as valuable collaborators in this global economic shift.