

Your Excellencies,

The eradication of hunger is one of humanity's most noble, yet enduring, ambitions. Amidst this perilous climatic epoch,

, the quest to defeat undernourishment seems an insurmountable task. Still, embedded within our collective consciousness, reside the tools to address malnutrition and to safeguard the ecological systems on which our continued human existence so heavily depends.

Through a renewed multilateralism,

, we can ensure that everyone, everywhere has access to safe and nutritious food.

All stakeholders, including farmers, fishers and indigenous communities must mobilise themselves immense hurdles, we have kept the faith to ensure that life, living and production continue . The Food and Agricultural Organisation (FAO) and World Food Programme (WFP) have been our committed partners during these trying times.

Global stakeholders, in particular developed countries, are being summoned to match these endeavours with deep emission cuts, and wide-
