Chapeau

Recognizing the imperative for a more networked and multi-stakeholder approach to sustainable development, we encourage governments, private sectors, and civil societies to explore and establish initiatives between governments, private sectors, and civil societies that drive sustainable development.

Chapter II. International peace and security

Promoting multilateral cooperation in crisis response: We encourage establishing a coordinated and efficient multilateral response mechanism for global crises, facilitating collaboration between governments, international organizations, and humanitarian agencies.

Chapter III. Science, technology and innovation and digital cooperation
